EASTER REDEFINED

John 12:12—26

A paradox is defined as that which seems _____ in terms of its _____ or _____.

PARADOX #1 – THE GOD OF EASTER DOES NOT _____ TO US

In the Jewish mind, the Messiah would be an _____ king, setting up an earthly kingdom.

The people were driven by their _____ and not by a _____ desire to repent.

The Jews wanted a _____ leader and not a _____.

Jesus had no interest in being a _____, but _____ that would bring the peace and forgiveness from _____.

Jesus was not coming to _____ the Romans, but to die on a cross to conquer _____ and _____ for all mankind.

At first, the God of Easter did not appeal to the _____ either!

We want a God who is the means to our _____, but we are not interested in living a _____ life with Him!

Life is not about our _____, or our _____, but life is about Jesus _____ your life to Himself.

Not all who name the Name of Jesus today actually want to _____ Jesus!

We have enough of Jesus to make ourselves feel _____ and just enough of Jesus to make God _____.

The God of _____ is the God we _____!

PARADOX #2 – THE KEY TO THE CHRISTIAN LIFE IS _____

Jesus came not only to be a Messiah to the Jews, but also to _____ the Gentiles.

Not only was Jesus _____ to save the Gentiles, but He would also _____ to save the Gentiles.

The people wanted a great warrior who would lead them into battle _____; but Jesus said, "My glory has come" and it is not the _____ of the battlefield...it will be the glory of the _____!

The key to the Christian life is _____!

We must die to _____!

If He died for _____, we must die in _____, in order to be raised to _____ with Him!

Salvation is not the _____ of the old life ...it is the _____ of a new life in Christ.

In Jesus you will find life _____!

In today's society, people don't want to go to _____, but also people do not want to _____ with Jesus.
